Connelly Says Edelmuth Illogical: Can't Decide About Auditor's Report

Mayor William Edelmuth Says Criticism Is
'Finest Endorsement,' Then Says Report
Not Necessarily So; Budget Has
No Bearing on Bond Issues

Republican City Chairman Vincent G. Connelly drove the party's campaign to elect Abram F. Molyneux mayor several furlongs into the lead last night in an incisive, debunking speech in the First Ward.

Connelly's reply was in rebuttal of the remarks made the previous night by Mayor William F. Edelmuth in the Sixth Ward.

Among the chief points brought out by Connelly were the Democratic candidate's failure to prove Molyneux's platform incapable of fulfillment; a "very curious and illogical" stand on the State Auditor's report; why the Common Council passed the 1945 budget; and clarification for the mayor of his failure to differentiate between a city budget and a bond issue.

Regarding the State Auditor's report which Edelmuth has insisted is his "finest endorsement," Connelly said the "very curious

Final Meeting Brings Report of $30,683; Kaufman Gives Praise for Work

Rolling up a report of $30,683 at last night's final meeting, the Benedictine-Hospital appeal secured a grand total of $254,553, exceeding its objective of $250,000 by $4,553.

Joined by the Ulster County Towns Committees, the Kingston Organization, comprised of special gifts and general solicitation groups, the entire Benedictine organization met in its final attempt which exceeded its fondest expectations.

The Special Gifts Committee reported an additional $8,710, supported by $7,113 from the Kingston General Organization and further augmented by $14,860 from the Ulster County Towns Committees. Although the grand total secured to date far exceeds the original objective of $250,000, substantial additional funds are expected from many Kingston contributors not yet reported, as well as many of the Ulster county towns who have made only partial reports to date and others who will make their first reports within the next few days. Consequently it is expected that the present grand total will be exceeded substantially.

Monsignor M. J. Drury, president of the Board of Managers of the Benedictine, thanked all those who participated in the appeal and in behalf of the Sisters expressed appreciation for the interest and cooperation of the workers of the city and the townships throughout the county.

In thanking the members of the entire organization, both Kingston and Ulster County Committees, Judge George F. Kaufman, campaign chairman, said: "Words on an occasion such as this are wholly inadequate to express my elation, as well as that of the committee, at the splendid results obtained. We are profoundly grateful to the entire organization, singly and collectively, particularly in the deep satisfaction resulting once again in the knowledge that Kingston and Ulster county has not failed in its responsibility."

"The committee is confident that substantial additional funds will yet be secured from many who have not been solicited or referred to postpone their subscriptions to the later date, as well as certain committees still engaged in completing their activities."

"Therefore, in order that full benefits may be received from this great concerted effort, I sincerely urge all those still desiring to contribute to kindly send their contributions direct to Sister M. Benedictine, superintendent, direct to the Benedictine Hospital, Headquarters, which will remain open the balance of this week, after which a skeleton staff will continue with the completion of records and other activities at the Benedictine Hospital."

"Later on, as soon as final tabulations are completed, the respective committees, including the individual Ulster Towns, will be notified of the total amount secured within their communities. This breakdown will also include the various other soliciting groups. It is the desire of the Committee to give full credit of this splendid

Legislature Last Report Is Presented

Inquiry of 21 Months
Is Concluded by Special Grand Jury
in Albany

Cost $275,000

Jury Says Some of Its Pay Roll Reforms Are Affected

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—New York's legislature has committed "some wrongs" but on the whole it functions with "efficiency and rectitude," the special grand jury investigating the lawmakers concluded in a final report today.

Totalling up 21 months of inquiry, ordered by Governor Dewey and costing approximately $275,000, the jury said some of its proposed payroll reforms had been effected, at a saving of $232,852 in a 15-month period, and indicated confidence the legislature would carry out the balance of its major recommendations, made in two previous presentations.

Disposition of a contempt proceeding against Irwin Steingut of Brooklyn, Democratic leader of the Assembly, is the investigation's only remaining business. Special Prosecutor Hiram C. Todd said the grand jury would not be formally disbanded until the case was adjudicated.

State Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Imrie sentenced Steingut to 10 days in jail and fined him $300 upon finding him in contempt of court for alleged evasive answers to questions related to a purported $112,000 excess of personal expenditures over income in a 10-year period. The case is before the Appellate Division.

In their valedictory report, submitted to Justice Imrie, the grand jurors declared:

"The steps taken by the legislature to reduce expenses and to reform its fiscal structure constitute examples of the willingness with which the legislature itself and a preponderant majority of those connected with it cooperated to achieve constructive public purposes."

"The grand jury believes that the public appreciates that the legislature's functions with general efficiency and rectitude. The fact that some wrongs have been brought to light because of the legislative investigation is counterbalanced by the fact that the grand jury of legislative operations is of earnest men, diligently engaged upon a public task in an earnest manner."

The jury saw no distinction between major parties in the legislature.

"The work of one party seems as meritorious as that of the other," the report said, "and both share equally the blame for whatever improprieties exist."

Both houses of the legislature are Republican-controlled.

About One Million Youths Would Get Training Under Truman's Universal Military Program

Bowling Alley Blaze Does $400,000 Damage

Firemen required three hours to extinguish this six-alarm fire in Baltimore which broke out in one of the nation's biggest bowling alleys, forced 350 patrons out of a theatre and spread along a block on North Charles street. Damage was estimated at $400,000. (AP Wirephoto).

Trainees Would Form Group Separate From Army or Navy, but Under Officers

Four Phases Seen

Basic and Specialist,
Prolonged, Combat
Training Planned

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Approximately 1,000,000 American youths would be trained each year under President Truman's proposed universal military training program, army sources estimated today.

These authorities, who preferred anonymity, calculated that about 1,200,000 youths turn 18 years of age each year. Under the President's proposals, those between 18 and 20 would be given a year's training. With parental consent, 17-year-old high school graduates also could enter training.

Skimming off an estimated 200,000 as completely disqualified physically, military experts calculate that about 1,000,000 would be going into training annually.

On the basis of the present military setup, they figure that about 70 per cent—or roughly 700,000—would be shunted into army training. The remainder would come under the navy's tutelage.

It would be best, they believe, if the men are brought in on a staggered basis, say about one-fourth of the year's eligibles entering each three months.

The trainees would constitute a force separate from either the army or navy, but the training would be handled by army and navy officers. In the opinion of army men, the training should be directed in large part by reserve and National Guard officers on active duty.

Under this plan, regular army men and officers would be limited to administrative posts at training centers.

These sources also envision a different dress uniform for the trainee force and fewer of the army's routine chores—such as kitchen police.

Civilians should do the cooking, baking and a major part of the clerical work for the trainees, they say.

However, the trainees would be taught how to take care of themselves—set up their own messes and keep their barracks clean. This is part of a soldier's training.

Aside from dress uniforms, the disciplinary and courts martial systems probably would be different from the regular services.

The trainees, these sources believe, should be paid—but not as much as a regular soldier or sailor. And there should be given as far as possible the choice of service and branches—ground, air, supply.

Four Main Phases

The army program would be divided into four main phases:

Basic training of about nine weeks for aviation, ground forces and service forces;

Period of about 13 weeks but variable, for specialist training—such as radar, radio meteorology; Prolonged training in teamwork; Four weeks of combined field exercises, a sort of top-off field maneuver, in which various units would get a workout in coordination.

The training would be intensive and devoted to modern strategy and the use of the newest weapons. In addition to purely military exercises, optional educational courses are visualized for the trainees' off hours. Extension courses from nearby colleges may be instituted.

There also would be emphasis on "morale" and physical training. At the end of the year, the trainees would have four choices: (1) enter a general reserve for six years, in the event of war, they could be drafted on orders from Congress; (2) enlist in the regular Army; (3) volunteer for the National Guard or for units of the organized reserve; and (4) sign up for additional training which may be made available to them.

Such additional training would be offered by the Air Corps. In his first year's training, an aviation trainee would have completed his pre-flight training and possibly have had some flight training. But further work would be necessary to qualify him as a pilot, bombardier or navigator.

Administration's Move Seen in New Classification

U. S. Will Protest, Give 'Pin Pricks'

Officials Admit Argentine
'Strong Man' Stronger
Than Ever in Rule

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—United States action against Juan Peron's Argentine dictatorship will consist of protest and "pin pricks," a survey of the situation made plain today.

Government officials concede gloomily that the Buenos Aires "Strong Man" apparently came back stronger than ever, following his recent ouster as vice-president.

But after studying courses of action which might be open to the U. S. and the 19 other American republics, these officials conclude that only the Argentine people can rid themselves of Peron's regime.

No desire to appease Peron figures in this conclusion.

Top U. S. officials, concerned over the Argentine situation this way:

Probably only two effective courses of action against the Peron regime exist—armed intervention, which is diplomatically unthinkable, and application of an economic embargo, which is unfeasible.

No economic embargo of Argentina is out because Europe—particularly Britain—is getting sorely-needed wheat, corn and linseed products from that country.

To persuade those beneficiary countries to help embargo Argentina, the U. S. undoubtedly would have to promise to make up the lost deficits out of its own stocks.

Officials admit the American public might balk at resumption of rationing to achieve such results.

Thus, this government, while continuing to exchange information on the situation with the other Americans is resting its hopes for improvement with the Argentine people and those Argentine Army officers opposed to Peron.

President Truman soon may appoint an ambassador to Buenos Aires to replace hard-hitting Secretary Braden, now assistant secretary of state for Latin America.

Most officials favor maintaining an ambassador to Argentina to report on conditions there, encourage democratic forces to exert themselves, and carry out the protest and "pin pricks" campaign every time the Peron regime violates its hemisphere and United Nations pledges.

Phinney Would Create 'Supervisor of Radio,' Considered Move to Meet Criticism

An evident attempt by the city administration to correct one of the criticisms contained in a recent report on the present city government, as made by New York state auditors, came before the Municipal Civil Service Commission at a meeting held last evening.

A communication was received from the Board of Police Commissioners over the signature of Charles F. Phinney as secretary of the board, requesting the establishment of a new classification title to be known as "supervisor of radio" in and for the police department of the city of Kingston.

The communication included a request for an increase in salary of approximately $300 per year, effective as of October 1, 1945. Lieut. Boss is now assigned to police radio work.

After a discussion the communication was referred to the New York Civil Service Commission for determination as to how the classification title could be altered.

The communication apparently is part of a plan of the present administration to meet the criticism contained in a recent report made by State auditors and correct the unauthorized payment of $300 which was paid as extra compensation for police radio work done by a member of the police force.

Mrs. Truman Resumes Her Study of Spanish

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman is resuming the study of Spanish, which she dropped when she became first lady last April.

Every Monday from 11 a. m. until 12:30 o'clock the formal Green Room of the White House is turned into a school room, complete with blackboard and chalk.

Classmates of Mrs. Truman include the wives of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Associate Justice Harold H. Burton, secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Attorney General Tom Clark, and Miss Florence King, daughter of Admiral Ernest J. King.

The teacher is Ramon Ramos, a Cuban who has been in Washington about six years.

Navy Expects 375 Ships To Transport Troops

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—By mid-November the Navy expects to have 360 of its own ships, 107 war shipping administration vessels and eight Army transports bringing men back from the Pacific.

Senator Gordon (R-Ore) made public today a letter from Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King assuring him that the Navy is assigning to transport duty "every transport, carrier, hospital ship and tender which can be made reasonably efficient for the purpose."

King estimated that the Navy ships will have a passenger capacity of 361,000 men, the U. S. A. 177,000 and the Army transports 132,000.

Ashes of U. S. War Prisoners Are Being Flown From Japan

By VERN HAUGLAND

Enroute from Tokyo to Manila, Oct. 24 (AP)—The 14 wooden boxes were stacked neatly in the center aisle of the plane. They were lashed down firmly against the bumpy weather. Some were the size of orange crates. Others were larger, or smaller.

We 30 passengers, mostly headed home, were aligned along the walls in bucket seats of the big, four-motored C-54 transport.

We could see the black steeling on the side of each box. Each bore a Quartermaster address and a notice "Air Shipment Required—Officer Courier."

"Do you know those boxes have a No. 2 priority out of Tokyo, and that when we get to Manila, where more planes are available, they will have a No. 1 priority all the way to the states?" asked a crew member.

"I bet some of those passengers wouldn't be so comfortable if they knew what is in them. It's listed on the manifest—ashes of U. S. war prisoners of war. That's the reason for the No. 2 priority in charge of them."

A bit reluctantly, 2nd Lt. Roy Carter, Fort Huron, Mich., talked about the boxes—weighing from 15 to 35 pounds each—containing earthy jars. Over half of the 1,051 were Americans. Most of the remainder were Dutch. There were seven Italians and one Norwegian, Carter said.

"Most of them were fellows captured at the start of the war in the Philippines, East Indies and Malaya. Most of them died long ago, although there were some B-29 fliers who died within the last year.

"This is the first shipment of ashes from Japan to the United States, I am informed. But it is just the beginning. All of these jars were on shelves in just one temple—Ju Gangi, at Osaka. There were others all over Japan."

Taking information from dog tags and other records, the Japanese engraved the name of each victim on a jar, and some also noted the date and "cause of death." Carter said the Japanese cremated the bodies and kept the ashes in a temple where a Buddhist priest prayed over them daily.

The ashes of non-Americans will be kept in a cemetery at Manila until their governments claim them. Ashes of British prisoners remain in Japan at the request of the British.

The Quartermaster Corps assigned me to accompany the ashes home because I am high on points," Carter said. "At first I didn't care for the idea. Then I figured it was the least I could do for the fellows who had lost their lives, and for their families."

Up forward, men started stretching out in their seats and cooking their first atop convenient boxes—some not realizing that the last traces of more than 1,000 men were underfoot—also going home.

Germans Declare Russian Treatment Poor for Prisoners

Only 6,000 of 100,000
Nazi Troops Captured at Stalingrad Alive,
British Say

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Oct. 24 (AP)—British authorities today quoted German war prisoners liberated by the Russians as saying that of approximately 100,000 Nazi troops captured at Stalingrad barely 6,000 are still alive.

The others have died in Soviet prison work camps or in transit home on trains which have 200 to 300 corpses aboard when they arrive at Frankfurt-on-Order, the prisoners were quoted as saying.

Capt. J. G. Johnson of Oxford, England, commandant of the Invaliden Strasse transit camp where the bulk of these discharged war prisoners from the east are received, said he believed their reports are "not exaggerated."

"One can well believe that death rate when one sees the miserable wrecks coming through here at the rate of 2,000 per day," Johnson said.

"The Russians are not releasing able bodied men. They are all sick or incapable of further work. Released women of the Wehrmacht auxiliaries are either pregnant or venerably diseased."

Johnson said some of the prisoners reported they walked all the way back from Russia after escaping from work camps. Many limp into the Invaliden camp daily.

General Motors Workers Take Big Strike Vote Today

Detroit, Oct. 24 (AP)—Automobile workers in General Motors' vast industrial empire cast strike ballots today, and it was considered certain, even by corporation officials, that more than 300,000 G.M. employees would favor a work stoppage to enforce their 30 per cent wage increase demands.

As the workers voted in the C.I.O. United Automobile Workers' "test case," General Motors officials and the union resumed their wage conference, but it was obvious they were far from reaching any agreement.

Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W.-C.I.O. vice president, said corporation officials maintained an "attitude of complete indifference" during yesterday's sessions.

He said G.M. officials read newspapers and magazines while negotiating.

Japanese May Ask Outside Aid; Press Told What to Do

Big Problem Is Food for Millions; Papers Told to Become Free or Quit Business

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Oct. 24 (AP)—Directors of Japan's biggest multi-million dollar family monopoly, prodded by the stigma of being linked with the war effort, wrestled today with reorganization—while the harassed government prepared to beg for outside aid to meet a food crisis.

The problem before the directors of Mitsui, a company dating back to 1673, was what to do with holdings which are frowned on under the present setup by General MacArthur.

The program before Welfare Minister Hitoshi Ashida was how to feed the people through the crucial months of November and December until transportation deficiencies are overcome to permit adequate distribution of the currently harvested rice crop. Ashida said his government plans to negotiate with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

While the Nipponese grappled with these paradoxical issues of rags and riches, American occupation interest was focused on the visit of a War Department official from Washington. Little was being said about the conferences of John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war, although these already have included a meeting with MacArthur.

McCloy may have brought word on the oft-rumored possibility of MacArthur making his first visit to the United States since before the war. Or he may have discussed the forthcoming participation of Russian, British, Australian and Chinese troops in the occupation.

Mitsui directors, it was learned authoritatively, are discussing such drastic moves as the retirement of 10 Mitsui families and the liquidation of their huge stock holdings. No definite decision has been reached, contrary to premature reports put out by Domei agency.

However, a decision is expected soon on the basis of policies determined in Washington. American authorities both here and in Washington are being advised fully on the discussions.

Shoe Rationing Might End Soon; Butter Points Drop

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Tentative plans call for an end of shoe rationing either October 28 or November 1, it was learned today.

Government officials also have considered the possibility of terminating the program earlier if these plans became generally known.

These are other developments and prospects on the rationing front:

O.P.A. has decided to cut butter ration values from 12 points a pound to eight. It will announce this tomorrow.

Passenger tire rationing may be ended late in December.

Truck tires are slated to come off the list by late November.

Choice of a date for ending shoe rationing is expected to be made today or tomorrow by O.P.A. and War Production Board officials.

"At this time," said one official who asked anonymity, "discussions definitely have boiled down to picking one of two dates. This could change, but it doesn't seem likely."

Tokyo, Oct. 24 (AP)—Japanese editors were told by Supreme Headquarters today to "establish a free and independent press or make way for papers which will."

Col. Kenneth B. Dyke, chief of civil information and education, charged the editors with failing to permit "full and frank discussion" of the war criminal problem of the position which the Imperial household will occupy in democratized Japan.

lature to make "kickbacks" to legislators "unequivocally criminal by statute," as it has for private employers.

The grand jury said that the Anderson Committee, created by the 1944 Legislature to investigate legislative methods, practices, procedures and expenditures, had substantially concurred with the findings and recommendations made by the jury in its first presentation. These dealt principally with payroll padding.

The jury cited figures showing that in the 15-month period ended June 30, 1945, legislative expenditures had declined $246,482. It said there were 250 employees lopped off the payroll in 1944, at a saving of $202,307, and 241 in the first half of 1945, at a saving of $30,545. In addition, $13,627 improperly received by legislators and employees was returned to the state.

Appropriation Is Spent
Cost of the legislative investigation by the Todd grand jury totaled $218,656 up to June 30, 1945. Appropriations for the inquiry aggregated $260,000. Most of it has been spent. Todd and a small clerical force are all that remain of a once fairly large staff.

Todd, who has been paid at the rate of $25,000 a year, said that in the tapering off phase of the inquiry "I shall try to regulate it (his salary) according to the time I devote to the work."

The grand jury said the Anderson Committee had taken no public position on five recommendations made in the second presentation. These were concerned chiefly with proposals to hire only those needed and to make certain they did their work.

The jury said it believed the $25,000 salary paid to legislators was "ample on the average and in some cases a generous emolument." It recommended, however, that certain positions entailing year-round work carry higher salaries.

The jury also urged that the payroll padding reforms, made administratively last winter, as well as other suggested reforms, be enacted into law.

3-Car Crash Is Fatal to Larkin, 3 Others Injured

John L. Larkin, 48, of William street, Newburgh, was fatally injured and three other persons sustained injuries in a three-car crash at Ireland Corners about 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. This was the second fatal accident at the same place in less than a week. Homer Baldwin, president of the Sullivan County National Bank, having been killed and several persons badly injured in an automobile collision there Friday last.

According to the story told Corporals William Martin and John Metzger of the Highland station, State Police, and Coroner Jesse McHugh, who made an investigation, Larkin, driving a Mack truck loaded with acetylene gas tanks, for the Peterkin Welding Supply Co. of Newburgh, approached the intersection of Routes 44 and 208, driving from Gardiner toward Modena, as Daniel Ellis, 54, of Monroe, driving a tank milk truck, approached, coming from the direction of New Paltz and headed for New York. About the same time Lloyd Smith, 46, of New Paltz, driving a Ford car and coming from Wallkill, came to the intersection and stopped. He said that he saw that the Larkin truck was going on through and so stopped his car.

The Larkin truck, according to the police report, struck the milk truck near the front and center and upset, being badly smashed up. Ellis said that he swerved his truck, but because of the Ford car being in his way was unable to go through. He struck the Ford on the left front and then the milk truck plowed into the tank. Ellis' wife, Mrs. Florence Ellis, who was riding with him, was taken to Vassar Hospital, where she was treated for a fractured right arm and possible chest injuries.

Dies in Hospital
Larkin was taken to Vassar Hospital, where he died at 8:55 o'clock Tuesday night. An autopsy showed that he had suffered from a fractured skull and punctured lungs.

Smith, driver of the Ford car, was treated at the scene of the accident by Dr. Walter P. Post of New Paltz for contusions and possible fractured ribs. Ellis was not seriously injured, escaping with cuts.

Coroner McHugh certified to a verdict of accidental death in the case of Mr. Larkin.

Ulster Educators Are in Favor of More State Aid

An increase in state aid to central schools so they may maintain the quality of service to rural youth for which such central schools were formed, was advocated at the fall conference of the Ulster Educators held on October 15 at Highland.

The association also adopted a resolution that the Ulster Educators support legislation to place the minimum salary for teachers at $1,500, with eight annual increments of $100 each.

Other resolutions submitted by the resolutions committee, headed by Miss Anna Divine, and adopted, include:

That money spent by a teacher furthering his education by study or travel be made an allowable deduction on state and federal income tax.

That the Ulster Educators support legislation to exempt teachers' pensions from state and federal tax.

That the central school districts offer to the returned veteran every opportunity to complete his education and that such courses be instituted as may be of value to him.

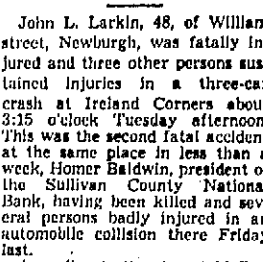

That the 1945 legislature amend the school law to increase state aid to all types of school districts except central schools in contracting districts, and that the costs of instructional service, operation of maintenance be substantially increased in these districts, and that the association favor an increase in state aid to central schools.

A resolution was also adopted recommending a minimum of ten days' sick leave per year with full pay for all teachers, and further that the substitute's pay during such absence be provided by the district. A copy of the resolution will be submitted to the school authorities in the rural areas of the Second Supervisory District.

Woman Driver, 33, Crashes Into Tree

Training Plan Is Another Headache For U. S. Congress

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—The people in Congress worried at the prospect of a fresh headache today.

They weren't over that one called demobilization yet—and here came another known as universal training.

They were in no hurry to start suffering from the lawmaking headache. Majority Leader Barkley said he had no idea when the lawmaking work would begin on President Truman's proposal that all able-bodied young men be made ready to defend their country.

The House and Senate Military Committees, which presumably will handle the bill—when there is one—didn't make a move.

Most legislators appeared to wish the problem hadn't come up. Not right now, anyway. But there it was.

They were divided into two minorities and a majority. One minority stood ready to go all the way with Mr. Truman in his request that the youths be required to receive a year of training between their 17th and 20th years. The other objected to compulsion and said there would be enough volunteers to man the postwar defense establishment.

Schooling Concerned
The majority said yes, there should be some training—but there must be some way to do it without interrupting the formal schooling of the nation's young men.

The Senate turned with relief to the job of debating a bill which will cut people's taxes next year.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Finance Committee knew there would be some sniping at the measure, which would lop $5,625,000,000 off federal revenues. He didn't think there would be many changes made in the committee's draft, however, and he thought the bill would come to a vote tomorrow.

Promises a Look
The Senate Military Committee, which has been asked to see a study of Army-Navy merger proposals prepared for the chiefs of staffs last year, was promised a look at it by President Truman.

While waiting for copies the members asked Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, the marine commandant, to tell what he thinks of consolidation.

A Senate Small Business Subcommittee called in Price Administrator Chester Bowles and conversion Director John W. Snyder to say where they stand price ceilings for houses.

Bowles wants them. Snyder hasn't said, publicly. He was reported to have opposed ceilings, then to have decided to stay out of the controversy.

Kingston Pianist Plays in Germany

A. H. Lipgar has just received a letter from his son, Corporal Leonard Lipgar, enclosing a program of a piano recital given by the latter at Wiesbaden, Germany, October 3, under auspices of the American Red Cross. Three of the numbers on the program are by the artist himself.

Corporal Lipgar wrote that there were about 300 present for the concert and as they all returned after the intermission they must have been satisfied. He said that "I was a little worried, but it came back all right and they want me to come back in two weeks."

The Corporal, who has been overseas nearly 22 months, is with the 8th AAF, Combat Moving Camera Unit. Before going overseas he played in the college band of Columbia University and also has played over A.F.N. branch of R.C.M. on the "Piano Parade" program.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Stock market prices continued their retreat today with steel and motors leading a general decline of fractions to more than two points.

Among the principal losers were U. S. Steel and General Motors, both of which face the possibility of strikes.

Plus signs gradually disappeared and only a handful were apparent near the fourth hour.

Mourning industrial strife and potential labor walkouts with their effects on reconversions accounted for part of the selling. Also, analysts have been forecasting a technical correction of the recent lengthy advance of the market to 8 1/2-year highs.

Lower were Bethlehem; Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, United Aircraft, Western Union "A," Kennecott, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Bonds were irregular and commodities lower.

N. Y. Water Service Preferred fell around 16 points in the curb after the state Public Service Commission rejected its amended recapitalization plan.

23 Soldiers and Dog Look for Headquarters

Tokyo, Wednesday, Oct. 24 (AP)—Twenty-three Army "orphans"—20 enlisted men, two captains and a dog named "Muttball"—are looking for a place to call their own in Japan.

The group was shipped from San Francisco in June on verbal instructions to report to Manila for written orders. Their vessel was rammed by another American ship off Truk and was forced to drydock at Guam.

The casual detachment went to Saipan, Okinawa and then Yokohama by thumb. They never got their orders.

Cpl. Lewis Bloomington, of Searsville, N. Y., one of the wandering soldiers, said they haven't received mail for five months and have been unable to establish contact with home because they haven't known where they would be.

"We have three men who don't know whether they are fathers and of how many children," the corporal lamented.

Two Specialists At Ulster County Extension Service

The past week the Ulster County Extension Service received help from the two specialists from Cornell University—Dr. Anne Kuhn of the Department of Child Development and Family Relationships and Miss Therese Wood of the Department of Food and Nutrition, and from one county leader, Mrs. Edmund Bower on glove-making.

Dr. Kuhn visited the Accord Family Life Study Club on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Millard Davis in Kerhonkson. Mrs. John Osterhoudt reported on readings for the day. Her topic was "Living the Other Fellow a Chance."

That evening Dr. Kuhn met with the Shawangunk Child Study Club at Mrs. Polansky's in Ellenville where the Family Life Institute was reported and plans were made for dividing the group, now too large for meetings in member's homes. Mothers of young children will have a separate course on their care and development. Joint meetings will be scheduled through the year.

Miss Therese Wood gave 24 food and nutrition leaders the first lesson on menu planning which includes short cuts in meal preparation.

Glove-making
Mrs. Edmund Bower held the first training school on the making of leather gloves on Friday. Leaders learned to measure hands, adapt patterns for individual fit and selected material for their gloves.

Dubinsky Arrested

James Dubinsky of Ellenville was arrested by Trooper Dailey of the State Police on a charge of reckless driving, following an accident on Route 209 between Ellenville and Spring Glen about 8:20 Tuesday night. Dubinsky's car, being driven north, collided with a truck driven by Tunik Knight of Middletown, who was going south. It was charged that Dubinsky was on the wrong side of the road. He was held for a hearing before Justice Willard Feet of Ellenville today.

Man Is Killed In Accident at Napanoch Bridge

Three motor vehicles were involved in an accident near the bridge over the Rondout at Napanoch about 6:05 o'clock Tuesday evening that resulted in the death of Harry Kriner, 43, of Napanoch. Kriner was fatally injured when he was struck while standing in front of a Chevrolet coach owned by LeRoy Elthney.

Trooper Dailey of the Wurtsboro station, State Police, who made the investigation found that Robert Allison, 19, had trouble with a truck he had just bought and which stopped on Route 209, between the bridge and the Farmington gas station, just north of the bridge. Elthney came along with his Chevrolet and stopped to see what was wrong, pulling up in front of the Allison car.

Shortly afterward a tractor trailer truck of the Rondout Paper Mills came along, operated by Donald Wright, 25, of Napanoch. Wright's truck struck the Allison truck, which in turn hit Elthney's car and the latter struck Kriner, who was standing in front of the Chevrolet.

Kriner was taken to the Vassar Memorial Hospital, where he died at 8:20 o'clock this morning. Coroner Jesse McHugh was called and an autopsy was to be performed at Ellenville today.

Montague Gives Talk on Future of Top of Our World

All Great Trade Is Going Over That Region, He Tells Kingston Dinner Club

The top of the world, figuratively and strategically, was brought to the attention of the Kingston National Dinner Club last evening by Sydney R. Montague, ex-member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Mr. Montague spoke from personal experience and study of the Arctic regions as he outlined the vast opportunities for the future of the Northland in his speech given at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

To begin with the opportunities of the North, "all of the great trade of the future is going over the top," said Mr. Montague. The only two countries at the top of the world over which these trade routes will be established are Russia and Canada. "Russia is one of the most powerfully organized nations on the service of the globe," he stated.

Canada on the other hand has vast resources and during the war has been developing. Today it has the fourth most powerful air force and the third most powerful fleet. Within one month after the war the debt cleared through heavy taxation, Mr. Montague noted. Canada has a population of only 12 million people. In the ground is 90 per cent of the world's nickel; 96 per cent of the world's supply of 96 per cent of uranium.

Together Russia and Canada control thousands of land and water ways for the new trade routes. He reminded the audience that the shortest distance between the United States and Singapore is over the North Pole.

In fact Russia is only five miles from territorial claims of the United States in Alaska and Asia is only 21 miles distant. Speaking of Alaska the lecturer pointed out that the 70,000 people there produce 82 million dollars a year and the United States takes 90 million of it in a most unbalanced scale of trade. Of the population in Alaska, 54 per cent do not belong to the "so-called white race."

Dipping farther into the records of the different territories, Mr. Montague spoke of measuring a herd of caribou in the Yukon valley by flying over the animals in an airplane. The herd, 25 miles long, four miles wide. Each animal weighed about 200 pounds. The grazing lands would make possible a 100 million dollar cattle industry in two years, he believes.

Room for 10 Millions
At a suggestion Mr. Montague thinks it would be much more reasonable to bring the starving people of Europe to the countries of the North where there is plenty of food and resources to be developed. He estimates room for 10 million people in Yukon; 70 million in Alaska; 100 million in other parts of Canada. The weather is cold in winter but delightful in summer and although the mosquitoes are large, they do not carry malaria or yellow fever and the Army Medical Corps has made tremendous strides in combatting them during the war.

The great Mackenzie river which is navigable for 2,200 of its 2,600 miles drains an area as large as the Mississippi. In its region are found the valuable radium and uranium materials, the latter of which has become so vital in atomic energy research. Mr. Montague reported that one gram of uranium was worth 10 and a half million dollars and that 19 ounces was taken from the North for the production of the atomic bomb. Also in this region and northern British Columbia are the Douglas fir trees which grow 300 feet high and eight feet thick and provide excellent lumber. They could provide a tremendous stock for plastics and pulp wood. Vast quantities of iron ore are also present.

Trip Over Barren Lands
One of Mr. Montague's most exciting trips was across the Barren lands of the Central Arctic, 2,200 miles between Mackenzie river and Hudson Bay. He made the trip while a member of the mounted police with an Eskimo companion and dog teams. Eleven men have been known to make the trek and only five are living today.

He considers his most important discovery on the trip the jet black rock formation of pitch blend, 300 feet high, 14 miles wide and many miles long. This is described as the most desirable rock of mineralogy today because it is raw material for both radium and uranium.

It was on this trip that he and his companion went four days without food until on the fifth day his Eskimo friend shot a white fox. At another time he was lost for 11 months when he and the Eskimo ate dogs.

Mr. Montague is fond of the Eskimo philosophy of life. They implicitly believe that they die each night and are born the next morning, thus forgetting all of the ugly things of the day before. Because of this idea they do not fear actual death and have no worries.

Because of the extreme cold, 60 and 70 degrees below zero, all of the clothing is made of furs. However, in the driving of the dog teams and work of the day the body perspires. This body moisture, the speaker emphasized was one of the greatest hazards. To absorb the perspiration, even the underwear is furred. At night the Eskimos disrobe and place the underwear outside. In the morning the perspiration has frozen into particles of ice which are quickly scraped from the fur.

The Eskimo diet is mainly raw meat and according to Mr. Montague when the entire seal is eaten the Eskimo has the best balanced diet possible. Except for the far west and Alaska, the Eskimo lives in snow houses. The family rarely has more than two children. When food becomes scarce, the oldest members of the family eat the least; and often will starve themselves to death rather than have the young perish.

Strict Training Is Given
Mr. Montague attributes the success of the Mounties to their strict training and especially to their non-political connections. They operate as wards of the government. They are taught not to shoot unless shot at; keep polite and smile as more powerful weapons than guns; do not offer sympathy and recognize that there is something more powerful than man.

He believes that the greatest problem to be faced today is not the labor and capital struggle but the idea of "every man for himself." He rather urges cooperation such as was shown in fighting the war.

A question forum was conducted following the lecture. The speaker again emphasized the importance of the new trade routes over the top of the world and the short time it will take to travel the distance in the new stratosphere type planes being developed. In addition the Arctic ocean, Hudson and Baffin Bays do not freeze solid and could be navigable.

The Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, president of the Kingston group presided at the meeting last night. He introduced the speaker of the evening and also Frederic Snyder of Kingston who is an old friend of Mr. Montague. The next dinner club meeting will be November 15 when Eli Culbertson will be the speaker.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

There's this to be said of Russia, and we shall be smart to note it well: When the Moscovites have determined on a major objective, they drive head-on for it.

That characteristic is illustrated in the Soviet action in proposing to conclude unilateral trade pacts with the Axis satellites Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria—a move which Britain and the United States have protested as violating the spirit of the Yalta Agreement for concerted policies among the Big Three. The significance of this development seems clear enough, and it supports the thesis advanced in this column long ago.

Moscow has laid out for its sphere of influence virtually the whole of eastern and central Europe up to the line running from the great German port of Stettin on the Baltic right down to the Adriatic. Just take a look at your maps. Within this zone is the new Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary, Finland and the Balkans, with the possible exception of Greece and Turkey, whose status remains to be seen.

The Soviet is determined consolidating this vast territory. Now this isn't a new phenomenon. As this writer has mentioned in previous articles, Russia is taking over the Hitlerian sphere of influence. German strength was politico-economic, backed by military power. Moscow's strength lies in similar factors.

Much of the Reich's prewar domination was due to the economic hold which it exercised over that whole area. Indeed, broadly speaking, this was Germany's main strength. The smaller countries in question were economically dependent on the Reich.

Take Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria—since these are the countries in the lime-light: more than fifty percent of all their exports were absorbed by Germany. And they had no alternative markets; there's a situation for you—no alternative markets.

The position was crisply summed up for me in Budapest just before the war by a famous Hungarian statesman. We were chatting in his study and after calling attention to the fact that more than half Hungary's exports went to Germany and that there were no other markets, he added: "All Hitler would have to do would be to cut off our exports to Germany for six months and we would be bankrupt. Do you think we are going to play along with him? The answer is yes."

So Russian trade is pushing into the vacuum caused by Germany's disappearance. Time alone will tell whether this new economic set-up will be as effective as the old one. Germany could make it work because of the fact that she was a great industrial nation and could meet the needs of the smaller countries for manufactured goods, while at the same time absorbing their agricultural products. It would seem that Russia will have to balance the economic situation in similar fashion.

Be that as may, meantime Moscow daily is tightening the lines in its new zone of influence. And that zone, of course, is extending in other directions—into the Mediterranean and middle east. Then there's another great Soviet sphere being created in the Far East.

Gets Fifth Divorce
Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Beulah Leggett, 31, obtained a divorce yesterday—her fifth since her first marriage 15 years ago, and her third in the last year. "Yes," she told reporters, "I expect to get married again. There's no shortage of men, but there is a shortage of good men—that's for sure."

Her fifth divorce was obtained before Circuit Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg from Otto Leggett, 33, a railroad worker, whom she charged with cruelty. They were married last March.

Jr. Hadassah Meeting
There will be an important meeting of Jr. Hadassah Thursday in the Hebrew School on Post street. The meeting starts at 8 o'clock and all members are asked to be there.

MEXICAN FILMS POPULAR
Panama City movie audiences, most of whom speak or understand English, like Latin artists in Spanish-spoken films and United States artists in English-spoken films, exhibitors declare. They are against superimposing Spanish dialogue on films enacted by U. S. artists, preferring the sound track in English and titles and captions in Spanish. Their idea is that a dubbed United States film does not compare favorably with a Spanish film enacted by Argentine or Mexican artists and produced in those countries.

APPOINTED

Brig. Gen. Kenneth C. Royall (above) of Goldsboro, N. C., was nominated by President Truman to be undersecretary of war, succeeding Robert P. Patterson, now secretary.

Leaves From Notebook Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

Tokyo, Oct. 24 (AP)—An American Air Force sergeant, who is teaching jitterbug-swing to a group of professional Japanese dancing girls, says these slow-eyed, but nimble-legged beauties are quicker to learn boogie than girls back home.

"They are crazy about jitterbugging," said Sgt. Harris Rosedale, Cincinnati dancing instructor who for more than a week has been teaching American dance routines to 40 Japanese chorus girls.

Their first show will be before a Japanese audience, but later they hope to dance at American soldier entertainments. Rosedale won't get to see them because his orders to return home are already in.

"They are natural at jitterbugging," said the sergeant, "better than American girls. They simply eat up jazz and they would rather do tap dancing than anything in the world."

"You show them a routine once and they can follow through right away. I only wish I could see them dance for our boys. They will knock the G.I.'s right out of their seats," Rosedale said.

Chorus girls in Tokyo range in age from 16 to 21 and have to rehearse new numbers after going through two or three shows each day.

"They only get 80 yen a month—that is a little of $3."

"I don't know how they live," Rosedale said. "They must come from good families and dance for the fun of it. They are much more independent than American chorus girls."

Rehearsals are held in a mirror-hung room, backstage in a five-bombed Nippon theatre, which is to reopen next month.

Despite their small and stocky stature—G.I.'s joke that "you can run over Japanese girls in a jeep without musing their hair"—they are like and agile from years of ballet dancing and easily learn new rhythms.

Persons back home who oppose jitterbugging might be interested to know that at first Japanese chorus girls refused to practice some steps in the belief they were immoral.

As soon as they were told that such dancing was conventional in America, they enthusiastically adopted it.

Rosedale was nonplussed at first because the girls greeted him at each rehearsal with profound bows.

"I taught them just to wave a hand and say hi," he said. He tried to have them rehearse in dancing shorts, believing they would be more comfortable, but the girls thumbed down his proposal as immodest. They rehearse in trousers and sweaters.

I asked two of these girls how they liked American jitterbug and boogie.

Toshi, who is slim and an experienced dancer 20 years old, is one of the outstanding members of the troupe.

"Everyone likes them," she said. "We like all American dances—they are so swift and exciting, and the music is fast too—not like ballet."

Less self-possessed, 16-year-old Teruko blushed a turned-salmon pink and giggled for several moments on the shoulders of her laughing fellow dancers before she replied:

"I like the movement of your dances. They are strange and new and the music is fast and thrilling." And Teruko giggled and giggled.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

"Who Done It?"

Portland, Ore., Oct. 24 (AP)—A precinct police sergeant called tonight for one of his patrolmen to confess and endure embarrassment for the honor of the force.

A fire alarm sent firemen next door rushing to their hose and ladder truck. Motors roared and the big doors swung open—but in the middle of the driveway was a parked car.

Police hurriedly pushed it aside, one reached for his ticket book—and then discovered it was a patrol car.

Dark Moment

Modesto, Calif., Oct. 24 (AP)—Being locked in a psychopathic ward holds no fascination for Deputy Sheriff Cope Hartley of Stanislaus county. The accidental imprisonment gave him some bad moments.

Passing attendants who heard his cries of "let me out, I'm a deputy sheriff," smiled indulgently. Finally, however, he got someone to believe him.

Nil in Nonchalance

Modesto, Calif., Oct. 24 (AP)—Answering a call about a peace disturbance, a deputy sheriff of Stanislaus county created a furore when a mouse ran up his trouser leg. He jumped right out of his pants before an audience of five women he had been questioning.

Choir Gives Concert At St. James Church

The choir concert at St. James Methodist Church last night was well received by an appreciative audience. Evelyn Mappletoft, Robertson, guest soloist, possesses a deep contralto voice which was particularly fine in the sacred group of solos.

For her secular numbers she responded with the encore, "Daddy's Sweetheart." Her final group, which she did in costume, consisted of Mexican folk songs. Part of these she sang in Spanish and others in English.

The Sanctuary Choir was at its best in the sacred number, "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place." The concert was opened with a brilliant organ number played by C. Franklin Pierce, minister of music and organist at the church. Mr. Pierce also accompanied the soloist and when he conducted the choir in the secular numbers Mrs. Pierce was the capable accompanist.

During the intermission Clarence L. Dumm, chairman of the music committee, spoke concerning the fund being raised for a music library. Following the concert the choir members with their husbands and wives, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dumm, and Mrs. Robertson as guests of honor were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harper at their home.

Additional Hostesses for V. F. W. Ball

ROSE ORRICO

THERESA GREGORY

THERESA QUALTIERE

So popular is the idea of hostesses to represent the factories at the V.F.W. Ball Friday night in the Municipal Auditorium, that five more have been chosen. Miss Theresa Qualtiere, who has a brother in the merchant marines, will represent Kings Dresses, 519 Broadway, the firm for whom she has worked six years.

The Misses Mary Tiano and Theresa Gregory have been chosen at Byrne-Ross Knitting Mills, 106 Prince street. Miss Tiano's brother, Cpl. John Tiano, recently received his honorable discharge at Spokane, Wash., after serving two years in the army air force. Miss Gregory's brother, Sgt. George Gregory, has been with the army air forces four years and is stationed at Chilcope Falls, Mass.

At Halpern Manufacturing Company, 791 Broadway, the employees chose the Misses Rose Orrico and Evelyn Day.

A queen will be chosen at the ball by the veterans of the Paving Army Air Force Convalescent Hospital, who will be guests of the V.F.W. for the evening. Already 502 patients at Castle Point Veterans' Hospital have made their choice from the pictures of the first 24 candidates. A command visit has been requested to have the hostesses appear at the hospital and the V.F.W. Ball committee is making arrangements for their transportation.

William Jordan, chairman of the ball, has arranged a program of more than a dozen acts of entertainment and three bands; Johnny Landre Band featuring Conrad Cruz's Rumba musicians; and a special waltz band of Howard Hey. Mr. Jordan, who is known for his beautiful paintings which he has produced for the American Legion in the past several years, such as "Gold Star Mother," "The Vision," "Red Cross Nurse" and the "Unknown Soldier," has written the tableau to be given at 11 p. m. The title is "Dream."

Doors will open at 7:15 p. m. Myer William F. Edelmann and Christopher Perry, commander of the Joyce-Schirck Post, V.F.W., will speak at 7:45 and the show will start promptly at 8 o'clock. The Queen of the Ball will be chosen at 10 p. m. followed by the grand march and dancing until the 11 o'clock ceremony. Afterward dancing will continue until 1 a. m.

The ticket committee requests the full return be made as soon as possible to Howard S. Pangburn, quartermaster, so that a complete listing may be made.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Covers were laid for 50 guests. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Freligh left for a short wedding trip. The bride expects to receive her discharge and the bridegroom expects to be stationed at New London, Conn., where they will make their home.

Mrs. Freligh, a graduate of Kingston High School, has served one and a half years in the Waves and is stationed at the Bainbridge, Md., Naval Hospital.

The bridegroom was graduated from Saugerties High School and has recently returned from the Pacific area after 41 months of submarine duty. He expects to be assigned to State duty upon completion of his leave.

Lowell Club Hears Two Papers at Meeting Tuesday

The Lowell Literary Club met with Mrs. C. E. Wonderly, at her home on Emerson street Tuesday afternoon. There were two papers for the day, "Alaska" given by Mrs. O. D. B. Ingalls and "Food," read by Miss Anna Dell Quimby.

Mrs. Ingalls spoke of the geography of Alaska with its high mountain peaks and beautiful scenery and in addition to the familiar ice and snow, the areas of productive farmlands to be found there. The villages and towns are still primitive and mining and fishing are the important industries. She spoke of Sitka as the original capital of the cathedral built there. Juneau is now the capital of the country. At Fairbanks is the University of Alaska, the most northern institution of higher learning. Shagway is noted for the base of supplies for the people during the Klondike gold rush. In closing Mrs. Ingalls noted the progress in aviation which has been made during the war and the building of the Alaskan Highway.

Miss Quimby spoke particularly of foods which the Americas have given to the world. She remarked that although the ordinary diet contains many foods from Europe or the East, the people of the Americas could supply a sufficient diet with products from the two continents. She also spoke of interesting legends connected with foods, such as corn, potatoes and beans; fruits and berries, which are members of the rose family; and also the importance of grass products in supplying the basic foods such as cereals.

The next meeting will be an evening meeting with Mrs. Mary Chidister, Monday, November 5.

Preparatory School, Hightstown, N. J., and the University of Pennsylvania. He has served with the 49th Fighter group since November 1942 having participated in the Papan, New Guinea, Bismarck Archipelago, Southern and Northern Philippines campaigns. He returned to America from overseas September 23 and has recently received his discharge.

Pacific Veteran Is Welcomed Home

A welcome home party was given Saturday evening in honor of Arthur R. Kubrick (center front row), who was recently discharged after 50 months of service. He served overseas 44 months in the Southwest Pacific area taking part in the New Guinea, Coral Sea and Bismarck Archipelago campaigns. He served with the Fifth Air Force as an armorer and has received the Presidential Unit Citation, three battle stars, Luzon, Japan, Taro-Pairi Harbor and Good Conduct ribbons.

Good Taste Today

PRETENDING TO KNOW PROVES IGNORANCE

To a number of letters from those who have become embarrassed when with people who talk about a subject unknown to them, the obvious answer is: One may know something about almost everything or almost everything about something, but no one can know everything about everything. What you must not do is to pretend you know more than you do. When the subject being discussed is unfamiliar to you, you merely sit and listen. But if you're drawn into the conversation by someone who asks you, for example, "What do you think of Senator X's speech," you can hardly escape being thought stupid not to have understood a word of it if you pretend to have read it. On the other hand, if you say frankly that you have not read it, your questioner has then no idea how brilliant your thoughts about it may be when you read it.

Traveling Expenses of Fiancee

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please give me the correct etiquette to follow for the traveling expenses of engaged couples. Is it permissible for the fiancee to assume the financial responsibility of a girl's train fare and hotel bill when she is visiting in another city at his invitation?

Answer: It is permissible for a man to pay the train fare of his fiancee but the hotel bill is a very moot question. During the war when he was in camp and perhaps leaving the country and she went to say good-bye to him, he could engage a room for her under these circumstances. But this was a war measure. After this, she should pay her own accommodations.

If His Mother Doesn't Write
Dear Mrs. Post: My niece has just announced her engagement to a young man whose home is many miles distant. He is writing to his parents of their plans. Should my niece wait to his mother or should she wait until his mother writes? And what if his mother does not write?

Answer: She should wait a little while before writing and then if the mother doesn't, it would be best that she take the initiative on the very sound theory that it is always better to build bridges than to dig trenches.

How should newspapers be notified of an engagement? Send for Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Announcing the Engagement," in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y., and enclose a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Two-in-One Tulip Planting

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

IF YOU like tulips, and who doesn't, why not have them in bloom out of doors for two months next spring instead of just for one month?

By planting a mixture of both the early blooming tulips and the late blooming tulips, one can enjoy this extra long period of bloom, and in the same area of your garden.

For a two-in-one tulip planting, first plant a row of the early tulips, either single or double varieties, which will give you bloom in April. Next plant a row of the late blooming tulips, either the Darwin, Breeder or Cottage tulips, which will bloom in May, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

A two-in-one planting can be repeated several times depending upon the width of your tulip border or bed.

The single early tulips have the most brilliant colorings. These range from 10 to 14 inches in height. The double early tulips do not grow as tall as the single tulips, nor are their colors as clear and vivid as the singles, but the blooms last longer.

In growing tulips it is of utmost importance to plant healthy bulbs of the best quality. Although tulips grow best in a sunny location, they succeed very well in light or partial shade. They prefer a light friable soil and are fussy about its being well-drained.

LION KILLS HUNTER

While the Liebenberg family of Keelanshoop, South Africa, trekked several hundred miles with their sheep to obtain pasture, their son, Koos, remained at their home in Outjo and went lion hunting. A lion was wounded in thick brush. Next morning the spoor was taken up and the hunters came on the wounded lion. Although it had five shots in it, the beast pounced on Liebenberg and killed him, before being killed itself by the hunters.

Jellyfish may be responsible for many unexplained bathing disasters to good swimmers on the British coast, according to Dr. H. J. Henderson, of Amersham. While bathing at Llandudno, the doctor dived in and felt "an intense red-hot pain" over

Rickey Drives Wedge for Using Negroes in Major Leagues

Jackie Robinson Signs To Play in International

Montreal Royals Have Former U.C.L.A. Grid Star Engaged to Take Care of Infield Post for 1946 Season; Rickey Sees Trouble Ahead, Says "We Won't Avoid It"

By SID FEDER

Montreal, Oct. 24 (AP)—Speaking for the Brooklyn ball club, Branch Rickey, Jr., said today the Dodgers may have the alligator by the tail in signing the first negro player ever admitted to organized baseball, but if trouble ahead "we won't avoid it."

Hiring Jackie Robinson, ex-U.C.L.A. football ace and U. S. Army lieutenant, to do his 1946 infielding for the Dodgers' International League farm—the Montreal Royals—the son of the Brooklyn president predicted it "even may cost the Brooklyn organization a number of ball players."

"But even if some players quit," the Dodger farm system director added as he previewed the possible reactions of players and fans at the surprise signing here last night, "they'll be back after a year or two in a cotton mill."

Earlier—before coming out fully with the statement that his father and Royal's President Hector Rickey "aren't inviting trouble, but won't avoid it"—young Rickey went over with Robinson all that the Negro shortstop's entry into organized baseball might imply. He explained that there might be difficulties for the quiet six-foot, 190-pounder from both players and fans alike in some quarters. He reviewed prejudices that exist in certain sections.

Means a Lot Says Player

"I realize what I'm going into," Robinson said. "I also realize how much it means to me, to my race and to baseball. I'm very happy over this chance, and I can only say I'll do my very best to come through in every manner."

Brought up from the Kansas City Negro Monarchs, which he joined after leaving the Army last spring, Robinson represents a $25,000, three-year buy by Branch Rickey, Sr., for Negro talent good enough to bring into the Brooklyn system, particularly as high as double-A ball.

According to the word around the Royals bullpen here, he is only one of about a couple of dozen Negro players Rickey's scouts have rounded up after hunting through much of Latin America as well as the United States.

First Contract to Negro

Robinson was brought into Brooklyn last August 29, accepted terms and agreed to sign before November 1, the first contract ever given a Negro player. Just what the terms were no one admitted here last night, but from Rickey it was learned the Dodgers also threw in a "good bonus" for Robinson's signature. He will join the Royals next spring when they open training, possibly at Daytona, Fla. If they return to their pre-war workout grounds, a shortstop this year, Robinson explained he's also at home on first or second.

Frank Shaughnessy, International League president, who lives here, said he couldn't foresee any extra violent reactions. "After all," he pointed out, "as long as any fellow's the right type and can make good and get along with other players, he can play ball. There's no rule in baseball that says a Negro can't play. Young Rickey, on the other hand, foresaw that his father and Rickey "won't undoubtedly be severely criticized in some sections of the country, where racial prejudice is rampant."

"Some players, particularly if they come from certain sections of the south," he said, "will steer away from a club with colored players on its roster. But Robinson comes highly recommended by our scouts and is a fine type of young man."

Purdue's Hughes Lineman of Week

Leads the Boilermakers to Triumph Over Ohio

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Tom Hughes, Purdue tackle, today gained the Associated Press award as "lineman of the week."

The St. Louis 220-pound, 6' 1" lineman led the Boilermakers to their unexpected 35 to 13 triumph over the previously unbeaten and untied Ohio State Buckeyes.

Huettler or Hand

In Suit—Steve Owen

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Angered by the "miserable" showing of his New York football Giants against the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday, Coach Steve Owen took one look at the movies of the Giants' 21-7 defeat and told his squad: "Nobody on this club is indispensable. If anybody doesn't play hustling football he'll turn in his suit."

"Some players, particularly if they come from certain sections of the south," he said, "will steer away from a club with colored players on its roster. But Robinson comes highly recommended by our scouts and is a fine type of young man."

"Now the boys want to keep wearing the old ones," he says.

New jerseys were ordered, Morrison reports, but they arrived too late to be used in the opening game.

Shift in Service Personnel May Affect Grid Picture

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Eastern football is approaching the showdown stage with Penn, Holy Cross and Columbia in the first row behind the Army and Navy powerhouses.

George Munger's Quakers, currently unbeaten, untied and unscored upon, appear headed for the unofficial Ivy League title, off results to date. Such unpredictable elements as injuries, the effects of playing both West Point and Annapolis and the early November shifts of Navy personnel can easily change all that.

Dartmouth which has already lost to Holy Cross, Penn and Notre Dame, is due to get some help from Colgate when Glen Treichel and George Heddy are transferred by the Navy from Hamilton to Hanover. Cornell gets a whole new backfield from the service and returning students just in time to invade Yale Saturday.

Stan Koslowski's knee injury may slow up the Holy Cross attack as the Crusaders prepared to meet an under-rated Colgate Club. The Red Raiders and the undefeated Temple team, are rated the main threats to a perfect record for H. C.

Lou Little's Columbia Lions, probably the biggest surprise of the east, continue to amaze with the long-distance scoring spurts of the freshman touchdowns twins, Gene Rossides and Lou Kussow. The winged-T formation plus a quartet of unusually gifted backs has made up for inadequacies in a line that will be dwarfed by Penn's front wall when the clubs meet Nov. 10.

Princeton didn't figure in the pre-season estimate but the Tigers upset of Cornell coupled with the return of tackle Dixie Walker makes the Tigers dangerous. All signs point to an Ivy League "title" game between Penn and Columbia at Franklin Field Nov. 10 but a vastly strengthened Cornell team which has both the Quakers and Lions on its schedule, could upset the applecart.

Not only being an accomplished bowler himself, Ferraro has the knack and willingness to pass on to the beginner the fundamentals of good bowling to get them off to a good start and being co-owner of the Central Recreation Alleys put him in a position where he has been able to help improve many of the average bowlers by his timely tips after watching them bowl a few times.

Much credit is also due him for the continued upward trend of bowling in the city of Kingston during the past few years, when so many of the better bowlers were serving in the armed forces.

Ferraro, known as the "Ace" on the polished lanes, bowled his perfect game last season in regular league competition, meeting all the requirements necessary for such an award.

He also received from the American Bowling Congress a beautiful gold ring which is awarded only to those bowling 300 under the exacting rules of the American Bowling Congress.

Along with his 300 game the Ace averaged 220 for his other two games, totaling 739 for high triple in this league. His season average for 78 games was a handsome 202 which is high class bowling.

Happy Chandler Has Hefty Problem to Contend With Now

Negro's Joining Brooklyn Farm Club Irks Bosses of Kansas City Monarchs Who Say They'll Fight to Keep Star; Giants to Scout Colored Loops

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler, who hasn't been getting along too happily, anyway, since he undertook to fill the late Judge Landis' shoes as baseball commissioner, can thank Branch Rickey, Sr., for his latest prospective headache.

Threatening to camp on the senator's doorstep today were the owners of the Kansas City Monarchs, negro professional baseball team, whose star shortstop, Jackie Robinson, was signed by Rickey last night to a contract with the Brooklyn farm club at Montreal.

"We won't take it lying down," declared Co-Owner T. Y. Baird of the Monarchs. "Robinson signed a contract with us last year and I feel that he is our property. If Chandler lets Montreal and Brooklyn get by with this he's really starting a mess."

This obviously was the first inkling Chandler had that his new $500,000-a-year job would call for him to act as adjudicator between the negro leagues, now threatened with wholesale raiding by Rickey, and the teams of organized white baseball which hired him.

It was a most vexing question, of course, whether the commissioner actually would be available to the aggrieved negro owners as a court to which they could carry their complaints, or whether his duties merely called for him to police his own organization.

Opening Wedge

The reaction of the Monarch's co-owner was, perhaps, the most interesting obtained to the signing of the first negro player to a contract in organized ball. It had been generally felt—and no doubt by Rickey, himself—that the revolutionary move would be universally hailed by negro baseball as the long-sought opening wedge into the big leagues. Owner or Baird's beef was, therefore, a considerable surprise.

President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators was quick to see the justice of Baird's complaint, declaring: "That is a well established league, and organized baseball shouldn't take their players. The Negro League is entitled to full recognition as a full-fledged baseball organization."

Has 25 on String

It gave every appearance of being a question that would have to be settled soon if Rickey, as was reported, had lined up some 25 other negro players besides Robinson for his Brooklyn farm team. The Dodgers' president was reported to have said that in three years search he had not found a single negro player with a contract.

If there had been any expectation that the announcement of Robinson's signing would cause a storm of controversy in organized baseball circles, it failed to develop immediately. For the most part owners and league officials preferred not to comment last night, but those who did almost unanimously said the graceful thing.

Giants Will Follow Suit

President Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants termed Rickey's action a "fine way to start the program" and said his own club would begin scouting the negro leagues next year. Bill Bonawiller, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said "it is an affair of the Brooklyn and Montreal clubs whom they may sign, whether white or colored."

Among those who said they had no comment to make were President William A. Harridge of the American League and Judge William G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., head of the National Association of Minor Leagues. President Ford Frick of the National League was away on vacation and was not immediately available. Neither was Commissioner Chandler, who was somewhere in the wilds of New York city.

ations were underway and when he asked them to "make your own minds up" and "vote for what you believe in," he was quoted as saying, "this is more important than anything you have to say."

Reuther identified the official as Harry B. Coen, in charge of G.M. labor relations. There were no replies to Reuther's charges either from the corporation or Coen.

Emphasizing that a strike would not necessarily follow the election, Reuther said a walkout would not be called "until every human effort has been made to settle this thing across the conference table."

Predicts Only Light Vote

The union leader predicted only a light vote, which he said would be sufficient to make a strike legal. Outcome of the vote, one of the largest ever taken under the Smith-Connally act and costing the G.M. $100, will be announced by the National Labor Relations Board but not before tomorrow afternoon at the earliest.

The strike vote, first of three among the auto industry's big producers, was taken in union halls, school houses, "other places" because General Motors refused to allow it to be held on company property.

Similar votes will be taken among Chrysler Corp. employees Thursday and among Ford Motor Co. workers November 7. The three disputes involve more than half a million workers.

In each case the main issue is the 30 per cent wage increase, which General Motors President C. E. Wilson rejected as "unrealistic." The union maintains the corporation made "enormous profits" during the war and can afford to pay the increase without boosting retail car prices.

Other issues include seniority protection for displaced workers in certain reconverted plants and the payment of status in each plant to permanent transfer from one plant to another and new positions.

Union spokesmen predicted 90

Chandler to Resign Soon

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler, commissioner of baseball, said today that he had not submitted his resignation as a member of the Senate although "it will come before very soon."

Chandler said: "Any announcement of the date will have to come through the government of Kentucky. I have been clearing out my office in Washington and everybody knows I am going to resign soon but I want the governor to be the first to know it, not to learn about it by reading the newspapers."
